Give your students a head start for university!

According to research carried out by the University of London's Institute of Education with students using Pamoja courses:

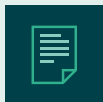

- ◆ 100% of participants said that, prior to university, they had gained experience in a range of online learning tools that they are now using as part of their university learning.
- ◆ Many indicated that the pre-university experience of online learning provided 'rehearsal space', allowing students to develop their approaches to study, including note-taking, information searching, and communicating online (with peers and teachers) before starting university.
